A Banking Service Uniformly Good

Organized 33 years ago the Hyde Park Bank has grown to its present size and won world-wide recognition for "Solidity, Strength, Safety, and Service" because it has adhered rigidly to the ideal of service upon which it was founded.

Unmistakable testimony as to the quality of service available at this Bank and its standing in the financial world is the record of depositors which represents every town in Vermont, every State in the Union, the Canadian Provinces, Cuba, the Canal Zone, the Philippine Islands, India, China, and England.

> Interest at 4 per cent begins immediately and is paid for each 30-day period funds remains on deposit.

FOURTH AT JOHNSON

The Only Big Celebration in This Part of the State

Johnson most cordially invites everybody to come and help her cele-brate the day of days, July Fourth. See posters and bills, this paper last week, and then remember all that is advertised will be seen, and much is advertised will be seen, and much more, and the committees are all busy planning many big surprises, Come and help us celebrate.

Community Church

Rededicated with Impressive Ceremony

An interesting occasion on Sunday was the rededication of the Stowe Community Church after the completion of an extensive renovation of the building. The decorations of the altar for the service were arranged by Mrs. Harold C. McMahon and her Sunday School class and consisted of a beautiful display of ferns, peonies and other flowers. The augmented choir was assisted by Miss Marjorie Watts at the organ, A. W. Christianson and Miss Laura Bailey, violins, and Clifton Stafford, saxophone. Solos were sung by Miss Anna Griggs and H. W. Burnham and a duet by Mrs. H. W. Barrows and Mrs. T. A. Douglass. Others in the choir were Mrs. Lola B. Douglass, Mrs. L. S. Macutchan and T. A. the late Hon. Freaks of lightning were noticeable during a recent storm in West Glover, when it stopped the motor in the car of Frank Sinon, as he was driving along the highway, entered one of the houses on the telephone wire and made many holes in the curtain, and at the Blodgett home threw the baby from Mrs. Blodgett's arms and left one of the older children unconscious for some time.

A survey has been made of the overpass at Richmond, the well known "checkered house" curve, where many automobile accidents have occurred, and the state highway department is investigating to find what can be secured in the meadow which borders the road. This curve has had a bad record this spring, several accidents and many near accidents having occurred there. Recently it is said a truck went off the steep bank at one side of the turn and turned completely over. About six weeks ago, a limousine coming from Burlington are active enough to have them went straight down from the over-pass, failing completely to make the sharp turn.

A Proctorsville woman, stopping in Chester Depot temporarily, ordered from a mail order house while there a garment. This was on October 3, 1921. Before it arrived on October 10 she returned to Proctorsville, leaving word with a niece to remail it to her at Proctorsville, which she did at once. It did not reach the destination and, in spite of many in-quiries, no clue could be found to

> There was once upon a time a telegraph operator here at the St. J. C. Ry. station that was a genius. His name was Carl Sweeney and had made a lot of friends, but was a wanderer, who did not remain long in a place. He was in Jacksonville, Fla., during the great yellow fever scourge years ago, as a tele-graph operator and kept the main office open with men dying all around him. Afterwards he went to Cuba and was there during the war. Since then he has been all over the country and is now located at Gallup, New Mexico.

He writes "Bing" Boynton under date of June 17 as follows:

See that you have all the good people there bothered as to what you are going to do, the same as usual. You should not keep them awake the way you do not telling them all affect their appetite for hard cider and doughnuts, and work their guesser overtime, especially at night. Well I guess then you are pretty well at that, pulling off something new as usual.

Optimism reigned supreme at the mass meeting of Vermont democrats held at Burlington June 21, when a complete state ticket was unanimously indorsed by the gathering of 75 or more prominent members of the party from various section of the state. Applause greeted the frequent statement that the democrats have the chance of a life time in putting something over in Vermont at the coming fall elections, these views sharing only in the honors of the day with the abuse heaped upon the republican party and it's management f state affairs.

"WHEATON HAS MADE GOOD"

The following editorial in regard to Wheaton College, Norton, Mass., which appeared in the Boston Herald of June 10, may be of interest to any person who noticed the offer of $100 toward expenses of any graduate of People's Academy, who might select this college the coming year: "A college enrollment of 15 in 1912 with 200 other students in various classifications; a college enrollment boxer has ever been seen in action of 309 today with no other classifithis vicinity. All indication point of 309 today with no other classification. A plant that includes eight new buildings, only two of them acquired by purchase. An entirely new faculty, courses and standards of scholarship on a level with those of colleges of far greater age and of colleges of far greater age, and the work of instruction organized by the department system, parisons mark the full transforma-tion of the Wheaton Seminary that was into the Wheaton College that In 1912 the school was incorporated as a college. The war years hindered progress, but the change went forward steadily neverthtless. President Cole proved his ability as a tactician by keeping everybody amiable even when the seminary students far outnumbered the college preparatory and the college students and it was realized that the seminary must wane as the school grew year by year towards the full stature authorized by its college charter. Wheaton has 'made good' as a college because it fills a need. Its tone is high, its resources are managed with care, and it does not aim to be a small edition of a big college, but to stay small enough for faculty and

Roads Wanted First

We have just visited with a Northfield man who, with his wife, has returned from a trip into the Adiron-dacks, going pretty well into that section. Coming back home from this trip he tells us New York has nothing on us in scenery and good hospitality, but the roads he went over in New York State is just the difference between being on the tourist map and in the "also ran class." First roads of good construction; second, hotels to go with them. We need both. If we get the roads the hotels will have to come.—Northfield News.
